ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Life remains imperfect till one gets a perfect “Guru” and the achievements can not be advanced without inspiration from well-wishers. I am lucky to have Prof. H.R. Sharma, Department of Agricultural Economics, as my Guru, Philosopher and Friend. Words fail me to thank him, for his untiring efforts to guide me at any hour without a frown, throughout my research work.

I am indebted to the Professor and Head of the department, Dr. R.K. Sharma for providing me the necessary facilities during the course of this work. My special thanks go to my advisory committee members, Dr. Virender Sharma, Dr. Kamlesh Singh, Dr. R.M. Bhagat and Dr. V.K. Sharma for guiding me at the hour of need. I also extend my sincere thanks to the ministerial staff of the department.

I shall be failing in my duties if I do not mention Dr. D.N. Rao, Dr. Purnita Dass and Dr. Shusheela Negi for their co-operation and technical assistance during my visit to Delhi for search of literature. It would have not been possible for me to achieve completion of the work without the time to time help and guidance of my respected teachers Dr Y S Negi and Dr K K Raina.

No words can express my sincere thanks to all the farmers of Kullu and Theog Blocks who unselfishly shared with me their precious time and knowledge related to my problem.

My gratitude also goes to Drs Chander Kanta and Brij Bala at RRS Bajaura, who helped me in the soil analysis work. I also thank Mrs. Janki Verma, Dr. Deepali and their family members for the comforts as well as co-operation provided at the time of data collection. Dr. Neelam Sharma and her family deserve special mention for always being there to help.

Thanks are due to the University for providing me financial support in the form of scholarship during the course of my study.

The perpetual inspiration by my parents, constant untiring help of my brother Dr. Tej Partap and encouragement by each member of my family energized me for completing the present assignment and words fail me to express my inner feelings of gratitude to them. My brother Dr. Ghanshyam Soni deserves special mention and thanks for his help in soil sampling work. I also thank all my near and dear ones, especially my friends.

Finally my thanks to my local guardians Prof Atul and his family members for providing me the congenial homely environment during the course of my study. The research work would have not attained the completion but for the untiring help rendered by Dr. Atul.

Needless to say errors and omissions are mine.

(Shanta Kumari)

Place: Palampur
Dated: July 26, 2007